Professional host intrusion investigation

If you suspect that your system and sensitive data have been compromised but do not have enough evidence to declare a malware attack or are simply not sure if there has been an intrusion, our digital forensic consultants can help confirm if a security breach has occurred. Our team will conduct a thorough investigation of cyberattacks and unauthorised host intrusion.

We will endeavour to determine how, why, when and where the malware attack has happened and what information has been stolen, corrupted, deleted or disclosed to unauthorised parties. We provide a confidential and discreet service to our customers across Ireland.

We can help determine:

- How it happened
- When it happened
- What data was accessed/taken
- Indicate who was responsible
- How to prevent it happening again

Advice and guidance

If you suspect your device has been compromised, contact us for advice as to what actions should or should not be taken.

Our team will also guide you on how to limit the scale of an attack and how to stop it happening again.

We will also advise you on how to keep your systems safe from future intrusions. Get in touch with us today if you have any questions.
